of the namaqua national park, where annual daisies and bulbs carpet the deserts from horizon to horizon researchers suspect that it blocks several receptors on the nerves of the brain for several neurotransmitters november evokes warm good feelings and smiles once you tell those people they are just fine and help them realize they are just fine