taking into account the impact of recent disposals in the United States and Mexico, the ratio would be 147 percent, compared with 145 percent at the end of April.

basically one has to have income low enough to qualify for the federal guaranteed income supplement, i.e.